SPIRIT OF THE ENGLISH AND FRENCH GOVERNMENT CONTRASTED.—From causes which might be traced in the history and development of English society and government, the general habit and practice of the English mind is compromise. No idea is carried out to more than a small portion of its legitimate consequences. Neither by the generality of our speculative thinkers, nor in the practice of the nation, are the principles which are professed ever thoroughly acted upon. Something always stops the application half way. This national habit has consequences of very various character, of which the following is one. It is natural to minds governed by habit (which is the character of the English more than of any other civilized people) that their tastes and inclinations become accommodated to their habitual practice; and as in England no principle is ever fully carried out, discordance between principles and practice has come to be regarded not only as the natural but as the desirable state. This is not an epigram or a paradox, but a sober description of the tone and sentiment commonly found in Englishmen. They never feel themselves safe unless they are living under the shadow of some conventional fiction—some agreement to say one thing and mean another. Now, constitutional royalty is precisely an arrangement of this very description. The very essence of it is that the so called sovereign, does not govern, ought not to govern, is not intended to govern, yet must be held up to the nation, be addressed by the nation, and even address the nation, as if he or she did govern. This which was originally a compromise between the friends of popular liberty and those of absolute monarchy, has established itself as a sincere feeling in the mind of the nation, who would be offended, and think their liberties endangered, if a king or queen meddled any further in the government than to give a formal sanction to all acts of Parliament, and to appoint as minister the person whom the majority in Parliament pointed out, and yet would be unaffectedly shocked if every considerable act of government did not profess and pretend to be the act and mandate of the person on the throne. The English are fond of boasting that they do not regard the theory, but only the practice of institutions; but their boast stops short of the truth; they actually prefer that their theory should be at variance with their practice. If any one proposed to convert their practice into theory he would be scouted. It appears to them unnatural and unsafe either to do the thing which they profess, or to profess the thing which they do. A theory which purports to the very thing intended to be acted upon fills them with alarm, it seems to carry with it a boundless extent of unforeseeable consequences.

It is otherwise in France, so much so that few Frenchmen can understand this singular characteristic of the English mind, which, seen imperfectly and by glimpses, is the origin of those accusations of profound hypocrisy mistakenly brought by many foreign [illegible] against the English nation; Englishmen, on their part, can in general as little understand the [illegible] simplicity and directness of Continental nations. The French had no relish for [illegible], the forms of which were intended to stimulate something at variance with acknowledged fact. Those who were for a king at all wanted one who was a substantial power in the state, and not a cipher; while, if the will of the nation is to be the government, if the king was to do nothing but register the nation's decrees, both the reason and the feelings of the French were in favor of having those decrees pronounced directly by the people's own delegates.—John Stuart Mill.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING JULY 15, 1865

The Malady of the Pacific Coast

From every point west of the Rocky mountains we have for a long time heard unceasing complaints of a universal decline of business and a general relaxation of the productive energies of the country. Much of this murmuring may be attributable to the disappointment of which all we from the investment of money and labor in enterprises which, though they promise much to the over confident speculator, are still full of uncertainty, and usually fail at last. Many things which are undertaken by our adventurous people are but the merest projects, and after large sums are expended in the effort to make them profitable they are often abandoned of necessity since nothing can be realized from them. Speculations here particularly those which pertain to mining differ from the modes of business elsewhere, in this that while in other parts of the country the returns for money invested are quite sure on this coast there is a great risk to be encountered from the very nature of the uncertain kind of business in which men mostly engage. So much time is misspent in searching fruitlessly for mineral wealth, and so much labor is lost in attempts to make money out of unprofitable schemes, that it may not improperly be thought that our lack of prosperity is largely to be attributed to those things. If we try mining, it is not every claim or ledge that will pay, and all the labor or cash expended in this manner is entirely lost. In other branches of business the gains are usually small but there is little liability to loss. In the aggregate, the profits of the less flattering, but surer investments will be greater than those of projects which often promise enormous gains only to defeat the hopes of the sanguine seeker after sudden wealth.

But these considerations will not suffice to account wholly for that condition of things, the existence of which causes complaints so loud and so general. It is notorious that men who want money with which to engage even in the safest branches of business, are unable to procure it at any price which they can afford to pay. This has long been the case, and it never was so keenly felt as now. Money is accumulating, but it is piling up in a few hands. The best branches of business are engrossed entirely by a comparatively few persons who have the power to prevent competitors from sharing the field with them. In this way the disorder the whole coast is complaining of, is aggravated instead of being corrected. In England it is known that landed property is steadily falling into the possession of the class who own the bulk of it already, and the worst consequences are seen to follow from this course of things. Political economists contemplate it with alarm, and not unfrequently predict that not merely unfortunate, but disastrous results will proceed from it. In a manner similar to this [illegible] relation of lands among the English aristocracy is the amassment of money among the wealthy men, particularly of California. If this were the result of the usual course of business, it would be both useless and wrong to complain, but as it is palpably brought about by the arts which covetousness and unfairness employ, it is right to [illegible] earnestly against it.

Some may essay to scout the idea here presented, but nearly all the newspapers of Nevada and California concur in saying that the decline of prosperity which is witnessed all over this part of the country, and [illegible] daily in the two States [illegible] to the conscienceless conduct of those who have acquired the control of all the business and trade of the whole Pacific slope. In Oregon the inconvenience and injury are hardly less severely felt. We are continually under an embarrassment caused by our [illegible] entirely in the power of those who actually succeed in controlling and using our labor and [illegible] for their own purposes. If we were to rid ourselves of the incubus of these conniving money kings, we should [illegible] a course of independent [illegible] ity again.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax.—The latest information relative to the movements of Mr. Colfax in [illegible] that he would leave Marysville (Cal.) for North yesterday. Hence it is probable that he will reach this place within the coming week. We are glad to see our leading citizens take the [illegible] in making preparations to give him a [illegible] reception. In accordance with a petition [illegible] signed, Mayor Failing has issued a call requesting the citizens of Portland to meet at the Court House this (Saturday) evening for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements to greet our distinguished visitor on his arrival.

In welcoming Mr. Colfax to our city it is right that we should [illegible] the very great services he has rendered our State in common with the [illegible] coast. In Congress, he has ever been one of the most laborious and [illegible] advocates of the [illegible] of the Pacific States. Every measure tending to our convenience or promotive of our prosperity, Mr. Colfax has labored for, ably and earnestly. Few of our statesmen have had so true a perception of the importance of our Pacific [illegible] as he. Through his efforts and those of a few other men of discernment and influence, we are now beginning to be better understood. Many in the east have [illegible] thought the Pacific States and Territories to be beyond the [illegible] of the United States. Comparatively few are yet fully awake to a knowledge of the present importance and coming greatness of a region which contains vastly more than enough of mineral wealth alone, to discharge our national debt, and free the country once more from every incumbrance and embarrassment.

As an instance of our indebtedness to Mr. Colfax, we may mention that the overland daily mail from Atchison to California owes its institution [illegible] to him. The Postmaster General regarding it with disfavor, John Sherman, then leader of the House of Representatives, opposed it, and many others thought the scheme wholly impracticable, and the appropriation of money for the purpose of putting into operation, a useless and unremunerative outlay of public funds. But Mr Colfax thought otherwise, and urged with so much force the necessity of having the mail, that the bill was carried. The members from Oregon and California, without his aid could never have succeeded in [illegible] Congress to pass the bill. Also, on all other occasions, he has shown himself our steadfast friend.

Here at Portland we ought to give him and his party a reception not equaled elsewhere in Oregon. Our city owes him this tribute of respect and consideration. We are desirous of seeing our people welcome with one voice, this true friend and energetic advocate of Western interests. We may properly remember, too, that he bears a message to us in common with all our countrymen here from our late lamented President, Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Colfax himself, says that his being entrusted with this message, made his journey to the Western coast a duty. This message we shall be permitted to hear from him to whom our martyred President gave it for us. Let Portland accord a hearty greeting to Hon. Schuyler Colfax.

The Copperhead State Central Committee of California, endeavored to have a meeting at San Francisco some days ago, but couldn't get a quorum. They then adjourned to meet at the call of their President. There is no occasion for them to meet again. Loyal California does not need their dictation.

(DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

DATES TO JUNE 27

Salt Lake, July [illegible].—The Eastern line is still [illegible] further beyond the three crossings of the Sweetwater. We are indebted to the Denver News of the [illegible] for the following telegraphic news:

Commercial Restrictions Removed.

Washington, June 27.—The President has issued another proclamation removing all restrictions upon internal, domestic and coastwise commerce in the territory west of the Mississippi.

Election to be Held in Virginia.

New York, June [illegible].—The election of Members of Congress and for the new Virginia Legislature will take place in the [illegible] of October. At this election the people are to decide whether the Legislature shall have power to repeal the constitutional provision which excludes from holding office all who have been engaged in rebellion.

The Herald's Washington special says that among other property already [illegible] to [illegible] special agent of the Treasury Department in Virginia is the Military Railroad from Danville to Greensboro, 40 miles, which was built by the rebel army. The road will be run under the control of the Treasury until regularly [illegible] by the Court. It is expected to pay a handsome [illegible] age above expenses.

The Tribune's Washington special says that the freedmen's bureau has prepared a list of abandoned lands in Virginia and will submit it to the President for his approval to-morrow. The list embraces between thirty and forty thousand acres.

The Herald's Norfolk special says that Jeff Davis' health is excellent.

At the municipal election in Norfolk on the 7th there was much excitement, and a heavy vote was polled. A large number of returned soldiers from the rebel army, took every necessary oath required of them to entitle them to franchise. R. C. Tabb, a prominent lawyer, was elected Mayor. Walter Taylor, late Adjutant General for Lee, was elected Register.

There were several fights in Norfolk recently growing out of difficulties between soldiers and negroes.

The Petersburg Daily News was suppressed by Houtehoff for disloyalty.

Testimony of Inhuman Treatment of our Prisoners.

New York, June 28.—The Times' Washington special says The committee on the Conduct of the War, in their forthcoming report detail the savage and inhuman treatment our prisoners received from the rebels. The Surgeon's report of the Richmond prisons for one quarter, shows that a fraction over one half of all the cases entered, resulted in death. Most of those cases were the result of inhuman treatment and neglect. After our men died their bodies were treated like so many carcasses of dead animals. Their bodies were piled up in dead houses and their eyes and cheeks eaten out by rats before they were put in their coffins.

Foote Applies for Pardon—Mosby Paroled.

New York, June 27.—The Times' Washington special says ex Senator Foote and C. J. Gould were the only persons of note who applied for pardon yesterday. Foote's application, dated at Montreal. Assistant Secretary of War Dana, will surrender his office to his successor, on Thursday next, and will immediately start to the northwest to assume the duties as editor of the Chicago Republican.

The Lynchburg Republican of the 17th says that the guerilla Mosby had surrendered and been paroled on the same terms as granted to Lee.

The Herald's Havana correspondent says that the British Consul at Havana has made a demand for the surrender of the blockade runner, Wren captured and run into Key West by her own crew.

Paris journals quote Lord Brougham's speech urging policy and clemency upon the American government. They generally praise it, and several express hopes that humane suggestions may be attended to.

The Paris Patrie says. The apology made for the insult to the American Consul's flag at Honolulu by an English captain last April not being satisfactory to the Washington Government demand was made for further satisfaction, which the English Government has just given in a dispatch to President Johnson, expressing regret for the occurrence.

The Moniteur in speaking of large reinforcements for Mexico, explains that the army in Mexico will receive before the 31st of December men necessary to replace those whose time expires by that date. The object of the movement is to maintain not increase the strength of the army.

The foreign embassadors had congratulated the Emperor Napoleon on his safe return.

California News.

San Francisco July 14.—A fire this morning destroyed Dutton & Co.'s hay store corner of Stuart and Mission streets. Several adjoining wooden buildings were also destroyed.

The McCarthy Nisbet libel case came up this morning and was carried over until the next term.

The Supreme Government of Mexico, by its agent, Placida Vega, brought suit in the Fifteenth District Court yesterday [illegible] Gillespie to recover fifty seven cases of Sharps rifles and other fire arms and implements of war valued at $27,000 and $150,000 damages for the alleged unlawful detention thereof.

Judge Hoffman yesterday, decided that the penalty of ten dollars prescribed by the Internal Revenue Act for not affixing stamps to each box of matches, applied to full packages without reference to its size.

Captain William F. Schriber has been appointed Deputy United States Marshal.

Markets.—The produce market is without change. In mining stocks, Chollar and Potosi advanced to 44@45 50. Uncle Sam declined to 2 60. Coffee—there has been an increased movement in coffee resulting in sales of 500 bgs of Rio at full figures, the last sale was at 21½, and the remainder of stock in first hands comprising 1 300 bgs is now held for higher figures; also 600 mats Manilla at 21c per lb. Sugar—advanced sales of 274 bgs Muscovada.

Sailed—on the 14th, ship Amethyst for Bellingham Bay; bark D. M. Hall, for Victoria; brig Deacon, for Puget Sound.

National Lincoln Monument.—It is purposed to erect a monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois as soon as practicable. A Monument Association was formed in that city in May last and a correspondence of action invited from all parts of the country. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Illinois, asks the co operation of all the teachers and pupils of the Public Schools in the United States in this National work. Every town in Illinois is contributing in this manner to the building of a monument which shall stand above the ashes of the nation's preserver. The monument could be built by large subscriptions from those who have great wealth and the disposition to give it for this praiseworthy object, but it will be a more fitting plan to afford the grateful millions of a redeemed and reunited country an opportunity to join in erecting a suitable structure over the grave of him whose memory will always be green in the hearts of his countrymen. The State Superintendent of Public Schools in California is intending to present a plan whereby the teachers and pupils of the schools of that State may be able to unite in aiding the fund. We should be glad to observe a similar movement in Oregon.

The Monroe Doctrine.—It is bruited about by many that the Monroe doctrine is to be abandoned, or that at least our Government is purposing to wait and see if Maximilian will not soon become convinced of the futility of his efforts to hold peacefully and safely a country whose people are so hostile to his Empire. We do not know what President Johnson's views may be in regard to the Mexican question, as he has never distinctly announced them. It is, however, too soon to expect that our Government will begin to signify its purpose to Maximilian even though it be thought well to enforce the Monroe doctrine, but we shall no doubt see some indications of a future policy on this question before long. A Washington dispatch of June 8th, says:

It is understood that preliminary measures have already been taken in reference to the enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine, and notification served upon Napoleon that since we have settled our own family affairs we will not submit to European interference with those of our neighbor, Mexico, and a very plain intimation given that Napoleon must not only not send more troops into Mexico, but must withdraw the French and Austrian troops now there, and leave the people of Mexico to decide for themselves whether they will have an Empire or Republic. Otherwise it will be our duty to see that Republicans have fair play.

Mr Foster of Connecticut, now acting Vice President, is on his way to Nevada and California. A few days ago he was said to be at Salt Lake.

Dispatches [illegible] New York Herald's Washington dispatch [illegible] the following: Notwithstanding the [illegible] of the [illegible] our Government [illegible] in any way [illegible] the demand of an English [illegible] our commerce by the Anglo Rebel pirates. The disbanding of a portion of the army is not evidence of a cowardly policy, enough will be retained to enforce any demand [illegible] regiments and if necessary, the veterans [illegible] can easily be summoned back to the field.

Poverty in Alabama.—The New York Times' Mobile correspondent represents the state of affairs in Alabama as [illegible] they actually prefer starving or begging to work in any form. Even in their penury and wretchedness they show the most virulent spirit of disaffection.

The famous Belle Boyd has come to grief in England. She has been turned penniless out of her hotel and the landlord retained her luggage as security for his bill. She has also parted with all her jewelry, and is in a state of great destitution.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN!

BY AUTHORITY OF THE SECRETARY OF THE Treasury, the undersigned has assumed the General Subscription Agency for the sale of United States Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the SEVEN-THIRTY LOAN.

These Notes are issued under date June 15th 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.

Gold Bearing Bonds.

These bonds are now worth a premium of nine per cent including gold interest from November, which makes the actual profit on the 7-30 loan at current rates, including interest about ten per cent per annum, besides its EXEMPTION FROM STATE AND MUNICIPAL TAXATION, WHICH ADDS FROM ONE TO THREE PER CENT. MORE, according to the rate levied on other property. The interest is payable in currency semi annually by coupons attached to each note which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest amounts to

One cent per day on a $50 note
Two cents " $100
Ten " " $500
20 " " $1000
$1 " " $5000

Notes of all denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions. This is now offered by the Government, and it is confidently expected that its superior advantages will make it the GREAT POPULAR LOAN Of the People!

Less than $300,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market.

This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within four months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

Letter from Grand Ronde

GRAND RONDE, July 8, 1865.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

You have already been informed that the County Commissioners appointed the Rev. Dr. Roswell to fill the vacancy which they supposed to exist in said office by the removal of Judge Lichtenthaler from our State, and the subsequent resignation of Judge Lichtenthaler and the appointment of J. P. Argersinger, Esq., to the same place by the Governor. I find there is considerable feeling at La Grande because the judge was not selected from their town or its vicinity. I do not think this feeling is general, although quite intense with a few; and Dr. Roswell has been induced by his friends to contend for the legality of his appointment. The result is that on the 5th of July two District County Courts were held in La Grande, one by each of the aforesaid claimants to the judgeship, the County Clerk officiating with one and Sheriff with the other. I believe there is no objection made to the Governor's appointee except in regard to his place of residence, and the cause of this is a fear that they may lose the county seat. This cannot be changed except by an election. An election cannot be had except as prescribed by law. It is to be regretted that this misunderstanding has happened, but time and reflection will, no doubt, reconcile the now discordant elements.

INDIAN DEPREDATIONS

From the "signs of the times," we believe that an extensive Indian war is brewing, which will include the Sioux and Snakes and all the Indians out on the extensive plains, if not the friendly Umatillas against us. The people of Auburn, Clark's creek and Burnt river have suffered greatly during the summer from their depredations. Almost every day some corral is robbed of a band of horses or cattle. Pack trains and teams are driven off continually, and every few days a man is shot. On Thursday last two men came riding into Auburn, who were attacked by Indians four miles this side of Burnt river, in the road from Clark's creek to Auburn. While camped one of the men was shot and severely wounded in the side and arm. The Indians succeeded in robbing them of one mule and some packs. These men stated that they succeeded in killing one Indian before making their escape.

The stage driver informs me that a man was killed on Burnt river by the Indians to-day.

The Umatillas, who are camped in Grand Ronde valley, are getting very bold and troublesome. Some of them went to a farm house on Grand Ronde river Wednesday last and asked in an impudent manner for bread. A white man was there who had been wounded three times by the red skins, and he refused their request, whereupon one of them said he would kill him. The man got [illegible] and would have shot the Indian [illegible] by another man from doing so. [illegible] they frequently turn their horses [illegible] and gardens. The Agent should [illegible] some of our military command [illegible] enough soldiers to Powder river and [illegible] river to protect the roads and chastise the Indians. This section of country is too sparsely settled to spare many of our own people to give them chase, and unless something is done, and that speedily, nothing but pillage and ruin awaits us.

FARMER.

P. S.—July 8th.—The stage from above has arrived and bring the news that fifty head of horses and mules were stolen from near the Straw Ranch on Burnt river night before last, and one man shot, the bullet striking him above the hip and entering the back bone. This man was standing in camp with a four-horse team. He made his escape with his life only, and dangerously wounded. Thirty-nine head of the animals belonged to a Mr. Bushey, of Mormon Basin.

GOV. BROWN OF GEORGIA AT WASHINGTON.—Correspondent of the New York Tribune dated Washington, 4th June, says:

Gov. Brown of Georgia has been released from the Old Capitol and is at large. He is not at all reticent, but converses freely in regard to his position and the prospects of the South. The Governor is a swarthy, dark-complexioned man, about six feet in height, long black hair, broad forehead, sunken eye and cheeks, sharp features, face clean shaved, and apparently about 50 years of age, but really only 45, the difference being credited to the anxiety and rough experiences of the last five years. His appearance is decidedly Southern, but his manners are bland and he is as docile as though he had never believed in the heresy of State sovereignty. He says earnestly that the game is up, the sword has settled the questions which the ballot could not settle satisfactorily, and now it is the duty of Southerners to accept the new order of things and adapt themselves to it as soon as possible. He announces his determination to do so, and says, with a laugh, that even he may yet come to adopt the Northern views of slavery and labor. He deprecates an appeal again to the ballot on the old questions which the war has settled. Gov. Brown speaks freely of his arrest, and makes the inquiry, "Where is Toombs?" He says that himself, Stephens and Toombs dined together at Stephens' house two days before he was arrested, and at that dinner they discussed the novelty of "the situation," and he and Stephens agreed that it would be manly, and probably futile, to flee, but resolved to remain at their homes and meet their fate whatever it might be. Toombs differed from them, and told them that he was going to run and should take the lower roads the next day. Brown and Stephens were captured in Cherokee county, Ga., where they reside, the former being brought away on a special train, and having less than an hour in which to get ready to leave his home and family.

Brown expresses himself as utterly astonished at the ridiculous figure which Jeff Davis cut in the presence of "the enemy." Though not an admirer of Jeff, personally or politically, and having no faith whatever in his policy, yet knew him as a man of ability, dignity and nerve, and does not understand how he ever could have lost his self control so far as to attempt to run away in his wife's clothes. He says it was a humiliation which surprised the whole South. He thinks the occurrence shows that Davis was so bewildered with the failure of his Government and so completely unnerved by the harrassing incidents of his flight, that he yielded to the advice of the women in disguising himself. Brown has had several conferences with the President, and thinks he will be permitted to return home to Georgia though this is not settled. Boyce of South Carolina is also here beside many others prominently identified with the rebellion in most of the Southern States and the President after personal conferences with them is himself deciding the question whether it is expedient to permit them to go at large.

LATER.—It is settled that Gov. Brown is no longer required to report and will be permitted to return home in a few days on pledge to take hold heartily to restore Georgia to her allegiance and re-organize the Government there. When the Lieutenant was conveying him North, under arrest, and had arrived near Dalton, Brown rallied him pleasantly about his small force. The Lieutenant asked him what he should do if the squad should be overpowered by guerrillas. The Governor replied that he should run with the Union troops.

A WARD.—A. Ward gets off the following lucid and discriminating sketch:

Jeff. Davis is not popular here. She is regarded as a Southern sympathiser. A [illegible] was kind to his Parents. She ran away from em many years ago, and has never bin back. This was showin' [illegible] a good deal of consideration when we reflect what his conduct has bin. Her captur in femail apparel confuses me in regard to his sex, & you see I speak of him as a her as frekent as otherwise. & I guess he feels so himself.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. Mr. Schmidt will hold services in the Council Chamber to-morrow at 10½ o'clock A. M. and 3 P. M. Services in the morning will be in the German language, in English in the afternoon.

VIRGINIA—HOW IS IT?—To the Editor of the New York Tribune—Sir: I am requested by [illegible] of the people here to write you a line correcting the statement of your Washington correspondent that in the recent election for members of the Legislature the Disunionists swept the State. Your correspondent has been grossly imposed upon in this matter and with [illegible] has nevertheless, flagrantly misrepresented the case.

In the first place there has no general election taken place in Virginia since the restoration. The election to which allusion is made was a special one held in [illegible] counties, and of these, returns have as yet been received from only three. I am informed, upon the best authority, that of the persons chosen in the three counties heard from all were Union men before the war, except the ones from Alexandria.

In the next place it is a fact that there are no longer any "Disunionists" in Virginia. The people are all for the Union, having failed in their effort for a separate government and recognizing that failure as conclusive. They accept the Union without reservation, intending to stand by it in good faith. The National Government is to be theirs and their children's for ever, and to that Government, albeit they would not have voluntarily chosen it, they will bear faithful allegiance. This is the exact position of ninety-nine hundredths of the people of Virginia.

I deeply regret to see the spirit of proscription which many persons entertain towards the Southern people in their present condition—a people whose kindred blood and heroic character, to say nothing of their misfortunes, should commend them to our sympathy and respect. This spirit of proscription is wrong. The slaveholders' rebellion was precipitated by irresistible forces, and it is unjust to hold individuals responsible for it. I should rather censure Thomas Jefferson than Jefferson Davis as of being its author. But the truth is it was an event developed in the progress of civilization. Shall we not be kind and forgiving to those who have committed error, however grievous, when it is so evident that their error was overruled by Providence in His wisdom to advance the interests of mankind?

With regard to the "incidental" questions connected with the war, I find the Southern people as reasonable as could be expected or desired. They consider slavery dead, and are glad that it is so. They are disposed to accommodate themselves to the new system of labor, and to promote the well being of the black man to the best of their ability. As to negro suffrage, it is a new idea here, but I am sure it will in some form or other, be ultimately adopted by the people. Very respectfully, your friend, MARTIN F. CONWAY. Richmond, Va., June 2, 1865.

THE MASTERS [illegible]. The [illegible] to adapt itself to the situation. It is really encouraging to behold the philosophic calmness with which our Southern brethren talk of these matters now that they cannot avoid the wholesome change that has come upon them.

[illegible] to the masters. It will be the best policy at once to prepare for the great change in our social system which now seems inevitable. The change has already been made by many, and some have testified to me with the happiest result, pecuniarily as well as socially. Some have demonstrated to their own satisfaction that the system which they have been taught to believe was indispensable has really been a burden, and are much better satisfied with the arrangements they have made than they had hoped or anticipated. Therefore, as a general change will undoubtedly be made very soon by a power that cannot be resisted, the part of wisdom will be to [illegible] preparations to supply deficiencies [illegible].

WISTAR'S BALSAM

—OF—

HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY

HALF A CENTURY,

WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN [illegible]

Coughs, Colds, [illegible], Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, [illegible] Difficulty of Breathing, [illegible], and every [illegible] of the

THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST,

INCLUDING EVEN

CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms [illegible] of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the fruit of the Cherry, there are [illegible] with it other ingredients of like value, thus [illegible] its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to [illegible], to heal, to relieve, and to cure [illegible] exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The [illegible] that has attended the use of this medicine in all cases of has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space [illegible] the names of a few of [illegible]:

W. B. LYMAN, M. D., [illegible], N. Y.
[illegible], M. D., [illegible]
H. D. MARTIN, M. D., [illegible], Pa.

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtues of Wistar's Balsam have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any effort on our part to introduce it beyond "the" [illegible] of our own country.

TO SALE [illegible] AND [illegible].

After Oct. 1, 1863, all genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM of WILD CHERRY for the Pacific Coast [illegible] in a new [illegible] will bear the printed [illegible] of both SETH W. FOWLE & Co., [illegible], Mass., and JOHN D. PARK, Cincinnati, Ohio, as well as facsimile of the [illegible] of "H. Butts," [illegible] & Park," and "H. Wistar, M. D."

The Death Message.

I am not superstitious. All my life I have been noted among my friends for a singular freedom from all feminine timidity or superstitious fear. Therefore the facts I am about to place before you I beg to assert are perfectly free from exaggeration—uncolored by any emotions of the fancy. I do not pretend to account for them—only to say they are too fearfully true.

My husband was one of the first to swell the ranks in defence of our country—first to answer her call for aid—to take upon himself privation and hardship, danger, that she might live for all time [illegible] honored and spotless in the eyes of other nations. Never a faltering step or [illegible] plaint attested weakness, and this I know better than any one perhaps. It is a comfort to me to remember it, now that he comes no more—to know that he was "faithful unto death." And yet oh my darling—would I had died for thee.

Many months ago he sent me from him while he entered upon the dangers of an important expedition. During the days of preparation little white-winged messengers fluttered into my retreat with cheering words and hopeful anticipations. But at last they ceased, and I knew that they had passed into the enemy's country—that I should hear from him no more until the object he had in view should have been attained.

What I suffered in those days of suspense and dread, a few will understand, who have gone through like ordeals. The day seemed one long day of agony. Usual occupations lost their interest. In spite of myself my powers of self control seemed daily slipping away from me until I at length grew feverish and restless and could only wander about "wearily waiting."

One evening a lady came into my room with a strange story about a clairvoyant to whom she had made a visit. I will not repeat her narration. It seemed to me wild, improbable and silly, but after she had gone the idea occurred to me that a like experiment might serve to while away the weary hours with something of novelty, and though I felt a little ashamed of such folly, I resolved to make this woman a visit.

It was evening. The clock struck eight just as my visitor left the room, and I acted upon the idea as soon as it came to me. Donning a large dark cloak with a hood and throwing a thick veil over my head, I passed out quietly and took the direction to the place which she had incidentally mentioned. Without the slightest difficulty I found the house and entered. The house was small, meanly furnished, and in a very disagreeable locality, but I had expected this, so it gave me no trouble. The way to it led through innumerable small streets and narrow courts—strange to the eye, offensive to the smell; but, as I have said, I am not timid, and it did not occur to me that danger might lurk in this miserable quarter of a great city, though I should certainly have admitted the rashness of this step had I paused to think.

The clairvoyant proved a pleasant person—poor and illiterate—but obliging and kind. I made an effort before entering the little cottage to throw off the sadness that oppressed me, that I might avoid giving her any clue to the state of my mind. I succeeded admirably. When I stated my business, it was in a careless laughing manner. I then said—

"Curiosity has led me here. I want to see if you can tell me anything of the past, present or future. If you can do it, probably I may be led to believe in clairvoyant power. But I warn you I am incredulous. I must have positive proof."

She laughed.

"You are one of the inquiring kind and demand tests. Whether you get them is not dependent upon myself. You must be the judge after I am placed beyond your control—in a trance state."

I smiled incredulously, but took the chair she placed for me. She assumed another at the opposite side of the table, and her hands were quietly laid upon it before her.

She was not looking at me. Her eyes drooped in a steady gaze at the figures upon the table cover. I scanned her features closely. Nothing in her manner indicated deceit or a desire to practice upon the incredulity of the public. Her face was an honest, frank one, unusually genial and pleasant to look at, though far from pretty. One strong proof most favorable to her honesty, was a total absence of interested motives. She made no charges for "sittings." It appeared she did it only to oblige her friends at first, and strangers had gradually heard of her wonderful power until her house at length was sought out by many. She might have done well if she would. She was very poor, and a small fee would certainly have been due for the time she yielded to the gratification of the curious. But she refused to do it, [illegible] the imputation it would fix upon her.

In about five minutes she drew a heavy breath and her hands dropped beside her like one in a deep sleep. To my surprise I observed a marked change in her features, which had become fearfully pale. Her lips wore a bluish cast and were drawn tightly over the teeth. Then the breath [illegible] heavy and labored like that of a dying person. Yet all this affected me but little. I was not a whit more inclined to be credulous, nor in the least excited.

Gradually she grew quiet, and her respiration [illegible] natural and easy. One hand was extended [illegible] me, into which I silently laid mine; and then she spoke in a changed and solemn voice.

"Mary, I am sorry that you came here to-night—sorry for two reasons. First, that it brings danger to yourself; secondly, because you will find no happiness in the revelations I am called upon to make. You do not believe now, but you will soon."

I confess to being a little startled at hearing my own name spoken by a stranger, but remained very quiet, suffering her to proceed.

"You will receive a proof of what you are now about to hear, as you go home to-night. You will find yourself in danger, but will not actually [illegible] personal injury. In the second test you will not escape with so much ease, for the blow that must fall will be lasting in its effect. Now I will make the medium see and paint for you a picture. Only remember, my child, that God is merciful."

"Who calls me child?" curiously.

"Who should call you child, but a parent," was the reply. "I am your father."

"Prove it by giving me your first name."

"Still doubtful? I used to write my name 'Edward.' You have it engraved in the ring that was your mother's, now upon your hand."

This was strictly true, and I felt a strange sensation of awe creeping over me, but I maintained my [illegible] and [illegible] fear. Perhaps it may [illegible] that this [illegible] be so, yet reason [illegible]. If it were possible that my [illegible] could return to me, why should I [illegible]?

"Pray go on," I said, "I am [illegible]."

"I see," said the medium, staring now with wide open eyes into vacancy, "a dark wood through which a body of cavalry is passing. There is a [illegible] of men in advance, as if reconnoitering. Just in the rear are some officers—two captains, a lieutenant, and a colonel, riding ahead of the main body of men. They appear to be in earnest consultation. They do not march in order. Now the colonel rides apart and one of the captains joins him. They are talking very earnestly together. Now he raises his hand to his side pocket and takes something from it which he hands to the captain, who looks at it and smiles. He speaks. I hear him say:

"'So, that is your Mary?'

"They speak of yourself. The superior officer is your husband, and he gives a charge concerning you to his friend. He says if anything happens to him, there is a package among his effects which he is to carry and deliver to you personally. It would seem that his mind runs much into thoughts of you, and he cannot banish a presentiment of coming evil.

"Hark! There is a sound as of hoofs upon the soft earth. The scouts are returning. They bring news of danger. The enemy is advancing in superior forces against them. But it is too late to retreat or even to seek shelter. They range into lines of battle, resolved to meet the foe like [illegible].

"On they come! Oh, horrors the poor fellows fall like rain before the light artillery of the enemy, planted so as to cover them where they stand. Your husband rides at the head of his men. He has received a shot in the left side. Ah! he reels in his saddle—he calls your name—he falls heavily! My God, it is fearful! The whole regiment is hemmed in—made prisoners of the few left. The one for whom you wait and pray will come no more!"

I sat mute, paralyzed with horror. Great drops of perspiration ran from her forehead and every action was impressive; the picture brought before me so really. I grew weak and sick at the heart. It seemed as if death had seized me.

A reaction came. If it had not, my strength would have forsaken me entirely. Fierce and burning anger took possession of my mind against the medium. I felt as if I must strike her with all the force of which I was mistress, and fearful of yielding to the impulse I threw a piece of money upon the table and abruptly left the cottage.

It was three or four squares to the nearest point at which I could take the cars, and fearful of having remained out too late for prudence, I hurried forward eager to get to my chamber where I could give free vent to my pent up feelings. As I passed through the little court to the streets two men obstructed my way. In brushing past them, some movement must have revealed my watch and chain as well as the diamond ring I wore upon my finger so thoughtlessly. Their eager glances and low murmured words ere I passed beyond hearing, recalled me to a recollection of my folly in coming out at night unattended, with enough valuable jewels upon my person to attract the attention of [illegible] perhaps a whole [illegible]. My cloak and veil hid the [illegible] and earrings, but they had seen enough, and I was not surprised when I heard them following me.

The streets were nearly dark now, and aided by the friendly gloom I ran, but the distance was not so great for they ran also, and it was [illegible] I lost all. But a few moments more and I should be past danger however. Yet to gain [illegible] I must pass through a narrow little street [illegible] as it was possible for a street to be. There were [illegible] lamps. They had either been [illegible] or never lighted, and all I had [illegible] was a struggling gleam now and then [illegible] windows. [illegible] through this I knew I should be in a well lighted street and under the protection of the police.

I had scarcely entered this narrow street when I heard them again quicken their pace to a run, and gathering my long dress from the pavement to prevent its sweep from retarding my flight, I sped lightly over the way for dear life. Yet they gained upon me rapidly. Their heavy boots seemed to fall close behind me in the chase, when a lucky accident gave me a chance for escape. A deeper darkness upon my left seemed to hint at a court, and at a venture I plunged into it, sheltering myself within its gloom. Oh [illegible], how I gathered the folds of my cloak to my lips to stifle the sound of my panting breath, and they passed it without pausing. I waited only to take off my gaiters, which was done in an instant, as they had elastic sides, and then hurried away swiftly the way I had come. The distance was greater but it led me beyond immediate danger and enabled me to baffle my pursuers. I turned the first corner, ran down the street to the next, and again up that until I came within sight of a policeman and then paused to take breath.

In another moment the welcome guardian of the night was near me and I begged his protection, telling him that I had been pursued. He [illegible] me closely, asking a number of questions till I saw he was suspicious of me, and made a candid statement of facts without [illegible], at the same time replacing my gaiters.

"A foolish fancy brought me out unattended. I visited a clairvoyant on [illegible] street, and was so heedless as not to remove my jewels. It has taught me a useful lesson, I trust."

He accepted my acknowledgment, and kindly saw me to a street car. In a little while afterwards I was safe at home.

After this adventure a weary month passed unbroken by positive intelligence of husband's fate. Rumors of disasters had reached me, but that was all. My sufferings were terrible. I wrote to his commanding general, but got no reply, and despair seized me.

One evening I sat by my fire, listening to the beating of an autumn rain against the window panes, when a visitor was announced.

"He looks like a soldier," the girl said in answer to my question. "But he gave no name—only said he wished to see you upon business of importance."

I rose immediately and went to the parlor, feeling that news had come at last. A fire glowed in the grate and the stranger sat before it, his clothes dripping with rain. He arose as I entered, and at a glance I saw that he was a slender man, with sad eyes, and a gentle, almost womanly face. His left arm was in a sling—his whole appearance that of a man who had suffered bitterly.

"You wished to see me, sir," I said, advancing.

"I did, madam. Here is a package for you which I was charged to give into your own hands. But before you open it, let me beg you, if you have faith in God, to call it to your aid now. You will need all your strength."

"My God!" I gasped, sinking into a chair. "Then it is true! Oh! my husband!—my husband!"

I clasped the little package to my bosom and moaned over it. No tears came to relieve my agony. Only dry, heavy sobs, that seemed to rend my very soul with their depth and anguish.

The stranger tried to comfort me. He told me how closely their lives had been twined together—how noble he was—how he loved him. How often my darling had talked to him of me. But oh! there was comfort in nothing for me more.

But why prolong this sad story? I have only shown how the vision was true to the letter. How that death message has bowed me to the earth, God only can know. To-night at twenty-five, I sit lonely and widowed, listening to the howlings of a wintry storm, beating upon the bright young head of my darling, lying afar in a nameless grave. I cannot even bend to weep over his resting place, for the dear form was buried in the enemy's country, together with his brave followers. Oh! may God preserve those who may read this from a sorrow like mine.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, July 14th, 1865.

In point of commerce there has been but little to attract notice during the period under review. The barkentine W. H. [illegible] arrived on Sunday with a full cargo of merchandise and machinery. On the day previous the schooner Alfred Crosby arrived from Victoria with a cargo of salt, lime, and iron. The steamship Brother Jonathan brought an assortment of merchandise, a large amount of machinery, and some considerable produce from California. Among the lot on her manifest we notice some flour from San Francisco which is imported at the cost of $7 50 ℔ bbl, being less than what our merchants are holding flour at. Some of this is of very good quality, some again is utterly worthless stuff. There has been a larger amount of flour going up the Columbia this week than has been sent forward for months past.

We notice during the week that a larger quantity of freight of all kinds is in transit to the mining region, and find some of this to be from parties who thought to send it forward via the Sacramento, but afterwards changed the course. We are informed from good sources that other parties contemplate doing the same thing. Telegrams lately received in this city from San Francisco, asking at what rates freight should be warranted to go through at from Portland, were answered according to the terms of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company to Umatilla, and the fact that teams were then willing to contract at from 7 to 10 cents ℔ lb from that point. A portion of the goods are now here on the way up the country.

The establishment of a line of vessels from San Francisco to this port in opposition to the old Oregon Packet Line has been talked of for some time and finally the brig Sunny South, Capt. John Wiggin, was placed on the line, coming into competition with the barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg; the two vessels lay on for cargoes and were filled in a short time at a reduction of nearly one half the old tariff. They are now due, and the cargoes will be landed at about $4 ℔ ton. Something of this kind is needed to bring about less rates on freight, which can surely be carried at a more moderate figure and still be highly remunerative to the owners of vessels.

In Stock and Exchange matters are dull. The crowning efforts of Stock holders seemed to be waiting for something to turn up. A lot of Santiam rock yielding a premium bar of $519 52 from 61 pounds of quartz, has attracted considerable attention for the most part of the week. We cannot say that money matters are easy. There appears to be more calls for than money in the market. Legal Tender Notes have found dull sales, closing to-day at 73@73½ asked but no bids. At the Board to-day sales of 10-40 Bonds were to the amount of $500 at 71 cents. Bullion arrives freely—there being now a surplus [illegible] and dust in the bank [illegible]. Exchange on San Francisco for the steamer leaving this evening is offered at par.

THE WORLD RENOWNED

SINGER SEWING MACHINES!

MANUFACTORY:
182, 184, 186, 188, 192 and 194 Mott Street, New York.

MOTTO—"The Singer Sewing Machines are the only Machines that can Sew all kinds of Cloth and with all kinds of Thread."

Singer's Letter A Family Machine is the best and cheapest Machine in the world for Family Sewing. There is no doubt as to the value of our Machines for manufacturing purposes, but it is only of late that the public began to learn that the essential elements of a Machine best adapted to the heaviest work would also be the elements to be embodied in a Family Machine.

We would ask for our Letter A Machines the attention of Vest Makers and Dress Makers, and all those who want Machines for Light Manufacturing Purposes. They embody the principles of the Manufacturing Machines, making like them, the interlocked stitch, and are destined to be as celebrated for FAMILY SEWING and Light Manufacturing purposes, as our Manufacturing Machines are for manufacturing purposes in general.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES are valuable in proportion to the number of things they can do well. See what ours can do before making a purchase.

☞ All persons requiring information about Sewing Machines, their sizes, prices, working capacities, and the best method of purchasing, can obtain it by sending for a copy of the SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET, which is entirely devoted to the subject. IT WILL BE SENT GRATIS.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease any way connected with the disorder or decay of the PROCREATIVE FUNCTIONS. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once rebraced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect; he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom of an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, AND
CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGUARY AND BURN-
ING, OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Males or Females,

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through your hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND,

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Order.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire faring, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, [illegible]; St. Mary's, Camb Place, Pad.; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower St.; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary; Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of St. [illegible], [illegible], and Ricord of Paris; who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are dragging out a miserable existence from the effects of their indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] and disfigured faces and their broken constitutions, [illegible] in the [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death [illegible] the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are [illegible] with any of these horrible [illegible] that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, who has made private diseases his study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be then careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

[illegible] the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is [illegible], and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Disease and Pregnancy, sent by mail. Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Doctor Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Doctor Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
